

Fed up!

Bay residents, councilmen complain to Cablevision

BY AMY PICKICH

Even though Cablevision continues to claim transmission problems, Bay St. Louis City Council members sent a message to company representatives on Tuesday that was loud and clear. They are fed up.

Councilman Jimmy Rutherford told Cablevision representatives their services were "totally unacceptable" and he will file with the FCC concerning the company's performance.

"I think we've had enough of this cable company," resident Craig Foster said. "This is the worst service I have experienced."

"For us to get this much reaction from the people, it is serious. We have to do something," Rutherford said.

He said residents are fed up with the company services, citing frequent outages, most of which the company was not aware of, and lack of a availability by telephone.

David Fyffe from Cablevision said outages Friday evening and Sunday afternoon were due to lack of back-up power supplies. He said the company has ordered stand-by power supplies to make cablevision more independent of the power company.

Fyffe said the company is also trying a new phone company to ensure direct contact with company representatives when problems occur.

"To be frank with you," councilman Charles Scianna told representatives, "if you had competition and the people had a choice, you'd be out of business."

Said councilman Tad Black, "I think you should give everyone a month free for all the headaches in the last four months. It's ridiculous in my opinion."

Fyffe said the company only gives rebates if service is interrupted for 24 hours in a row.

"If this was the first time the cable company was having problems, it would be one thing; but every time the wind blows something happens. Now it's the power company," councilman Tom Farve said.

"You've addressed the problem, now can you get back to us with a solution?" council president James Thriffley said.

County middle schools

Superintendent envisions two facilities at opposite ends of Hancock County

BY MARY G. SEILEY

A plan to build two new middle schools was aired Monday by Hancock County School Superintendent Myrna L. Bourgeois.

The construction would provide schools in the Pearlinton-Gulfview and Kiln-DeLisle areas for students in the 6th, 7th and 8th grades, Bourgeois told the county school board. Each would accommodate about 1,000 students.

As it is, the county operates three elementary schools, covering grades kindergarten through 6th grade; and a high school for grades 7 through 12.

Bourgeois cited a boom in county school enrollment, caused by casino development in the county, as the main reason for proposing the schools. She also said 7th graders would do better in a middle school environment than being "little children on a big campus" at the high school level.

School board members said they weren't prepared to endorse the plan, and asked that a special meeting be scheduled with the district's principals to discuss it further.

"I don't know I'd be in favor of two schools that taxpayers would have to support," said board president Lynette Necaise. She said the school board, principals and teachers need to be involved in the planning process.

Necaise also said she'd like to see population growth projections from the regional planning authority.

Bourgeois said the same boom that's causing the increased student population in the county is also jacking up the county's tax base -- additional tax levies won't be necessary to build the facilities, she said.

Over the past two years, the county has seen a net increase of 600 students, she said, an unprecedented growth for the county system.

She said the two new schools should suffice for about 10 years, if population projections hold true.

Waveland sewer system to be upgraded

BY MARY G. SEILEY

The Waveland Board of Aldermen approved an engineering contract Tuesday for upgrading the city's sewerage system.

The action came at the end of a meeting marred by confrontation and questioning from alderman Stan Weidman on a variety of matters.

The contract, with Duke Levy & Associates, provides for preliminary work on a 12-inch force main that essentially will bisect the city's existing collection system.

Backers of the project, including all aldermen except Weidman, say the construction project will save the city money by decreasing maintenance and electricity costs. And it will increase the city's system capacity, allowing for easier growth. Weidman didn't oppose the engineering contract as such, but he asked if anybody had actually read it. "Would you understand it if you did?" alderman Bob Hubbard asked Weidman.

City attorney Lucien Gex said the contract was a standard document used in Farmer's Home Administration projects.

He said it includes a base fee of $7,450 for engineering design services, $6,000 for a resident engineer/inspector during construction, and a cap of $5,000 in additional fees if more services are required.

But Weidman then challenged the project as a whole -- as he has in the past -- saying it is of primary benefit to Jubilee Casino at Bayou Caddy. He contended the casino's use of the city sewer system will end up costing the city thousands of dollars. The casino, outside the city limits, has contributed financially to the sewerage upgrade project.

Alderman Curtis P. Colson Jr. emphasized that the sewer project was conceived in 1988, before the state had even enacted a law allowing casinos in the state. Colson said the sewer system upgrade will cut annual maintenance and operating costs by thousands of dollars annually, and boost capacity. The project, he said, has absolutely nothing to do with the casino.

Weidman was not satisfied with the explanations, and continued to question the project.

Mayor Stella Frilot said his comments were "typical...He lies about everything. There's nothing you can do about it."

The mayor finally called for a vote, cutting off comment, as tempers flared and the volume of confrontation escalated.

When she called Colson's name in the roll call vote, he was silent momentarily. "I'm still trying to think this guy through," he said of Weidman. "You can't," said the mayor.

Colson and the rest of the council, except Weidman, voted to approve the engineering contract.

Earlier in the meeting, Weidman questioned the police chief extensively on past and future travel expenses. The bills covered meals, lodging and travel to professional association meetings and seminars.

Weidman said while it's important for the city to belong to professional organizations, "We need to balance what's

 (Medjugorje, Bosnia-Herzegovina)

Dear Children,
 These years I have been calling you to pray, to live what I am telling you, but you are living my messages a little. I invite you to open yourselves to God and to live with God in your hearts, living the good and giving witness to my messages. I love you and wish to protect you from every evil, but you do not desire it.

Dear Children, I cannot help you if you do not live God's Commandments, if you do not live the Mass, if you do not abandon sin. I invite you to become Apostles of love and goodness. In this world without peace, give witness to God and God's Love, and God will bless you and give you what you seek of Him. Thank you for having responded to my call.

First Baptist hosts potter/minister

Special to the Echo
 First Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis, 141 Main Street, will host two performances by Jon Mourghia from "The Potter's House Teaching Ministry" in Eureka Springs, Ark.

Performances will be Sunday, Nov. 7 at 8:30 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. There is no admission charge, however, a love offering will be received. Dr. Ed Deuschle, pastor, and the members of First Baptist Church invite the public to attend.

"The Potter's House Teaching Ministry" was developed by Mourghia as a method of demonstrating Biblical truths to people of all ages. He has been a potter since 1965 and became a Christian in 1970. He has combined his natural skill as a potter with the spiritual gift of teaching the Word of God to create a truly unique ministry from the potter's wheel.

Garbed as a potter of Biblical times, Mourghia uses his potter's wheel, clay and various vessels to illustrate the points of his teachings in churches, colleges, prisons, youth homes, ministerial alliance meetings, camps, conferences and meetings across the United States. As a vessel is made on the wheel, Jon parallels the physical and spiritual, illustrating with clay and pottery much in the way that Christ used common elements in His parables to explain spiritual activities that were misunderstood or invisible to natural man.

As clay is transformed from "lump" to finished vessel the symbolism of pottery-making becomes the story of every Christian.

REPAIRS NEEDED

In another matter, Bourgeois said the casino boom, and its spin-off construction in the area, has kept contractors so busy the school system can't find repair workers.

Recent advertisements for maintenance and repair work, said, have gotten no response. The board authorized hiring some maintenance workers on a per-hour, per-job basis for some small jobs, although projects in excess of $5,000 will continue to be assigned by the bid process.

ALTERNATIVE SCHOOL

The board agreed to hire Elaine Lizana, effective Nov. 22, as head teacher-administrator of the county's new alternative school. Board members said a replacement for Lizana in special education should be found before she assumes her new duties.

The new alternative facility, or "School for Success," is designed to teach students whose needs aren't met in a regular classroom setting. She said most students now instructed in the home-bound program will be transferred to the alternative school.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of Daniel Marty Hudson as a bus driver and Kathy Hosty as a cafeteria worker.

Rory King, Macy Faciane, Dawn Hall, Debra Vincent, Thomas Mosser and Gwen Ladner were approved as substitute teachers; and Paula Moran, Barbara Rood, Angela Breun and Sheila Jordan were approved as cafeteria substitutes. Beth Randall was approved as a part-time cafeteria worker.

The board also agreed to hire Charlotte Banks as a bus driver, and hired Edwinna Gardner and Truiette L. Simpson to drive Special Education children to school.

Other personnel action included approving Rose Lee as an in-school Drug Free Aide once a week at Hancock North Central Elementary. The board approved a salary supplement for Rose Lyons as project director for a foreign language assistance program.

BSL council seeks complete site plans from Casino Magic

BY AMY PICKICH

Bay city council members asked attorney Donald Rafferty to obtain complete site plans from Casino Magic for the November 9 meeting.

At Tuesday's city council meeting Franya Ethridge told council members that the law required Casino Magic to show adequate parking plans with initial site plans.

Another resident said the casino has inadequate parking for present plans, not expanded plans and now they want to go into residential areas, like Felicety Street.

Mayor Eddie Favre said the casino is the process of presenting plans to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Ethridge said the council should have had plans for adequate parking for present site plans prior to now.

Rafferty assured the council plans would be submitted at the next meeting.

Concerning traffic problems on Felicety Street, another requested increased patrol, no turning signs to deter traffic and an ordinance allowing local traffic only on Felicety Street. He requested that a misdemeanor charge be issued if traffic is not local.

Scaife told council members the Site Plan and Supplemental Review Standards approved at the October 17 meeting will be in order for publication at the November 9 meeting.

Clerk of Council Mike Cuevas said it would be effective 30 days after passage.

CASINO PAYMENT

The council approved the September payment of $365,730.49 from Casino Magic at the new 2.7 percent rate negotiated by the mayor and Scaife.

Thriffley asked to be included in the next service contract meeting with Casino Magic, as he thought the city was to receive 4.6 percent.

Councilman James Rutherford asked Scaife to draft an ordinance similar to the one in Waveland regulating solicitors in the city.

Rutherford said he was aware of "highly aggressive people soliciting Bay St. Louis residents after hours." He said some residents had involve the police.

Rutherford also updated the board on alligator removals near Webb Street. He said the BMR has removed four more alligators.

LAW ENFORCEMENT
Councilman Tad Black asked the mayor to beef up enforcement of the 11 p.m. curfew, especially around the Washington Avenue pier.

The mayor informed the council that a new curfew law is being drafted to help enforcement.

The mayor also told the council with recent hirings within the police department, at least three to four officers are on-duty at all times, with at least five on-duty during the night shift.

Black requested increased radar enforcement on Turner Street

Councilman Tom Farve requested the mayor contact the highway department on installing a traffic light between Washington and Drinkwater streets.

"When you cross that street, you take your life into your own hands," Farve said.

Thriffley asked the mayor to look into the hold up on the four-lane project at Blue Meadow Road.

The mayor said Sue Chamberlain with Gulf Regional Planning will meet with the board at the next meeting concerning comprehensive planning for zoning, sidewalks and intersections in the city.

"We are at a point right now where we do need someone to come in and pull it all together," Favre said.

PROPERTY CLEANUPS

Residents were on hand to thank the council for their "sincere efforts to clean the city."

Elvina Nichols thanked the council also for their efforts to "clean up" the corner. She said she has also received good reports from her neighbors.

"It is nice, but it can still be a little better," Nichols said.

Peggy Dutton from the Bay

St. Louis Community Association requested data on traffic and crime from 1991 to now from the police department.

In other matters the board approved:

The council adjourned until November 9.

After the meeting Cuevas presented the board with her resignation, effective November 9. Cuevas said she is not leaving the area, but will begin working for a community development firm in Biloxi.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

The regular high school football action will come to a close Friday night for Hancock High, Bay High and St. Stanislaus.

It has really been a so-so season for the county's schools with Bay High at 5-4 for the season; Hancock High, 4-6 and St. Stanislaus, 0-10.

Each team would like to end the season with a victory to carry over into next season.

All three local teams have their work cut out, as opponents are very strong this week.

Bay High, following an impressive victory over Long Beach last Friday, will visit Warrior country in d'Iberville. Hancock High, outclassed by Pearl River Central last week, will journey a little further down the road to St. Martin. St. Stanislaus following a galant effort against St. Martin this past Friday and losing only by four points and will once again really be tested in a go at Pearl River Central.

Pearl River Central has already clinched a play-off spot and will be at home, so the Rocks will have their work cut out for them.

d'Iberville is always up for home games and has good fan support along with a fine squad.

The Tigers will really have to be ready for the Warriors and go at them from the kickoff until the final whistle if they expect to bring another victory home.

St. Martin's Yellow Jackets have been improving during the past few years and should be hard for the Hawks to handle.

Hancock will have to play their best game of the season to bring a victory home. They sure will have to play better this week.

Stanislaus would like to break the ice with a victory, at least get one for the season, but there is a big obstacle in the way, Pearl River Central.

Who knows what will happen in a high football game.

This is the week for all local team supporters to follow their respective squads. This will show your appreciation to each and every player. They have worked hard each Friday of the season, not to mention the many days of practice.

I hope to see you at the game.

The cold snap that moved in last weekend caught many of us by surprise. We went almost the whole winter last season without such a front coming through.

I hope this is not an indication of the type of winter we are to expect this year.

Myself, I am a warm-weather person and have a preference of summertime over winter.

There were a lot of record cold temperatures set over the past weekend, so look out come about January and February.

As far as I am concerned, the cold could be sent back to the Arctic Circle.

Those who qualify for Thanksgiving Baskets need to register at the Gulf Coast Community Action Office, 403 Third St., Bay St. Louis.

Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) members will be taking applications on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9 a.m. to noon through November 12.

If you need further information, call 467-3198.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Education essential in fighting diabetes

Dear Editor:

According to a recent study published in the New England Journal of Medicine, the closer to normal people with diabetes keep their blood sugar level, the less likely they are to develop other serious health complications, such as diabetic eye disease, kidney failure and nerve damage.

November is National Diabetes Month, and the American Diabetes Association is seizing this opportunity to reach the 164,000 Mississippians with diabetes for whom these latest research developments are crucial.

The American Diabetes Association provides publications and services designed to improve the lives of all people affected by diabetes, and community programs which include summer camp for children with diabetes.

What you don't know about diabetes can hurt you! Call our local American Diabetes Association office today at 957-7878, and find out how tight management of diabetes can greatly limit or postpone severe complications.

Please support National Diabetes Month, and help us spread the word to the 164,000 Mississippians who fight for their lives each day.

Until there's a cure, there's the American Diabetes Association.

Sincerely,
Conrad and Joel Bourgeois

A simple solution to cemetery cleanup

Dear Editor:

To all Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland officials and to all youth organizations:

We would like to address the issue of the Hancock County, Bay St. Louis and Waveland cemeteries. It seems to us that we have overlooked the seemingly simple solution to this ongoing problem.

Why not utilize our prisoners occasionally to clean the cemeteries? If not, what's wrong with the "youth traffic offenders," instead of prancing them up and down the now heavily trafficked roads of our cities?

Or, better yet, let's get our youth organizations, i.e., Key Club, CYO's, Scouts and the like to "Adopt A Cemetery" for a year.

These are all workable solutions to an unsightly problem. Make this work for our cities!

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi Economic Council

Mapping out a future

Following a map is not always easy. Some are easy to read while others tend to lead a person on a wild goose chase. So much depends on the creator of the map.

Throughout the past few months, a map has been created for the state that may possibly chart the course of the 1994 Legislature.

Lieutenant Governor Eddie Briggs, House Speaker Tim Ford, legislators and representatives of state agencies, universities, and the private sector have all met in Jackson for MAP meeting — the Mississippi Action Plan.

The Mississippi Economic Council was invited to participate in the MAP meetings and has represented Mississippi business in the planning sessions.

Legislative committees have met to discuss the issues of education, transportation, health care, economic development, crime and law enforcement and the environment. Last week marked the final meetings for MAP. Taking all of the discussions from the meetings, legislators will now prepare legislation for the 1994 session.

What will be interesting to see is what kind of trip the Legislature takes using the new map. Will they hit every city on the way, making sure they cover all of the bases and take in all of the sites? Or, will they take the shortcuts, missing many of

Fordice's 'line-item veto' faces first legal barrier

Gov. Kirk Fordice's flight into the realm of constitutional law via his self-proclaimed "line-item veto" of portions of two bond bills for capital improvements at colleges and historic properties passed by the 1993 Legislature faces its first legal barrier in Hinds Chancery Court next week.

Already, the legal filings in the case have raised not only the age-old separation of powers issue, but also have brought a bizarre test that contends that the historic bonding authority of the Mississippi Legislature is unconstitutional.

Three legislators — senators Hob Bryan of Aberdeen and John Hohrn of Jackson and Rep. Glenn Endris of Biloxi — had filed suit in August seeking a declaratory judgment to nullify as unconstitutional Fordice's "line-item vetoes" of the two bond bills as well as 28 state agency appropriations.

Their lawsuit contended that the state Constitution does not give the governor power to veto parts of bills containing bond authorizations, and while Section 73 permits the governor to veto separate items in an appropriation bill, it does not entitle him to change numbers in the bill.

Fordice had deleted $55 million in bond authorizations for construction at colleges in the bills, while leaving untouched $25 million in bonds for so-called historic properties. In the 28 state agency appropriations, Fordice had crossed out the number of authorized job slots in each agency and written in a reduced figure.

Fordice didn't want Atty. Gen. Mike Moore to name an attorney to defend him in the lawsuit by the three legislators, so he picked his own. Laughably, his first choice was right-wing GOP ideologue Michael Wallace, but it so happened that Wallace was already handling some state bond issues for the State Bond Commission.

Moore, who would have to pay for the governor's special attorney, balked on Wallace because of the obvious conflict of interest. So as a compromise, Fordice picked John Corlew, a former state senator from Pascagoula, now practicing law in Jackson.

On behalf of Fordice, Corlew's motion seeking dismissal of the lawsuit predictably charges that the governor under the separation of powers is immune from being sued because the Legislature has not acted to override his vetoes.

(Of course, the Legislature is in the position that if it attempts to override the challenged partial vetoes, it would be tacit recognition that Fordice had acted within his constitutional authority.)

But next, Corlew's motion — obviously with Fordice's consent — tosses in a bombshell: A contention that provisions in the two bond issue bills passed by the Legislature violate three sections of the state Constitution, which relate to limitations required for appropriations.

In effect, what Fordice is charging is that the basic mechanism of the bond bills must set a precise amount of funds which can be drawn from the state treasury, cannot remain in force more than one year, and can embrace only one subject.

Obviously, a bond authorization bill cannot anticipate how much interest will be paid before the bonds are sold and, because of the inherent nature of bond financing of projects, a one-year limit on the life of the bonds would be both a total absurdity and make them unmarketable.

If these two bond bills were declared unconstitutional on the grounds raised by Fordice's attorney, then all of Mississippi's $525 million outstanding state general obligation bonds would also be unconstitutional because they are structured and funded the same way.

Furthermore, so would the $23 million in economic development bonds for broiler chicken production plants which Fordice got the Legislature to approve in a one-day special session of the Legislature in July.

It's also ridiculous that the $25 million in bonds for historical properties and the state fairgrounds, which Fordice voted to issue as a member of the State Bond commission, is among those challenged as unconstitutional.

With MAP leading the way, the 1994 legislative session can be productive — if everyone stays on route and doesn't get lost.

The marks and making the trip easy on themselves?

With MAP leading the way, the 1994 legislative session can be productive — if everyone stays on route and doesn't get lost.

Static test firing at Stennis

New hybrid rocket motors tested at Stennis Space Cen.

A successful series of test firings performed on 10 development hybrid rocket motors was completed Nov. 1 at NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center, signaling both the first firing of such a motor at the center and the first use of the center's state-of-the-art Component Test Facility (CTF).

The 1,000-pound (4,448-newton) thrust motors were test fired at the CTF in order to determine how quickly the fuel was expended under a variety of operating conditions. The Component Test Facility is a flexible, three-celled ground test facility capable of a variety of rocket engine testing or other testing involving ultra high-pressure gases and high-pressure, super-cold fluids.

"This type testing challenges our engineering and technical staff and opens up an avenue to demonstrate that Stennis Space Center can be competitive in the commercial propulsion testing market by attracting the aerospace industry here to test their products," said NASA's Glade Woods, chief of SSC's Advanced Program Development Office.

The tests were conducted for the American Rocket Company, a firm located in Ventura, Calif., that specializes in the commercialization of low-cost hybrid rocket propulsion.

"The American Rocket Company was very pleased with the results of the tests and the test services provided by Stennis Space Center," said NASA's Bill Kahle, hybrid rocket motor project manager.

"I think the success of the tests is due not only to the capabilities of the CTF, but also to the engineers and technicians who worked on the project."

Hybrid propulsion technology has the potential to provide launch vehicles and booster rockets that are low-cost, reliable, safe and have clean-burning exhaust products that are not harmful to the environment.

Hybrid rocket motors are powered by a combination of solid and liquid fuels rather than by solid fuel or liquid fuel alone.

One characteristic of these motors is that they use non-explosive propellants. The hybrid motor fired at SSC utilizes a solid synthetic rubber fuel and gaseous oxygen as the oxidizer.

These propellants are separated both physically by separate tanks and by phase — one solid and one gaseous. Thus, the potential for mixing of the fuel and oxidizer leading to a catastrophic explosion is decreased. Originally developed to test large turbomachinery components for future generation rocket engines, the CTF is flexible enough to accommodate both larger and smaller rocket engines and components.

The Component Test Facility is also capable of a wide variety of testing, which includes rocket engine testing using liquid hydrogen or liquid hydrocarbon fuels and solid or hybrid motor testing.

High-tech firm moves into Army Ammo plant

A Jackson engineering, research and development and management firm that specializes in management of complex projects for federal, state, local and commercial clients, has moved its R & D Center to the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant.

Hilton Systems Inc. (HSI) established in 1985, is an employee-owned, SBA certified Small Disadvantaged 8 Corp.

with more than 125 people located internationally.

Ray Scott, general manager for Mason Technologies Inc., the facility's contractor for MSAAP said, "We welcome Hilton Systems Inc. and their current staff to our complex."

Scott said, "The current focus working through the Armament Retooling and Manufacturing Support Act passed by Congress October of last year is now a reality for another company.

"This allows business, commercial and industrial opportunities for private business to utilize space at MSAAP."

John Nifong, project manager for Hilton Systems Inc. said, "HSI will design and develop systems to serve the needs of their customers worldwide from the MSAAP location using the local available assets to make specialized products."

said the meetings included sessions by the International Police Chiefs Association, the Mississippi Police Chiefs Association, and a two-day seminar by a veteran of the New York Police Department. That seminar, he said, will cover such topics as homicide investigations, crime scenes, suicide, sexual deviance, serial killings and fingerprinting.

Varnell appeared to be on the brink of offering to skip an upcoming Mississippi Police Chiefs Association meeting in Oxford, Ms., when the mayor intevned. "I don't feel the police chief should be interrogated," she said.

"Obviously the chief felt it is important or he wouldn't have asked" to attend, she said. She noted the chief was authorized $10,000 for travel and training in his annual budget. The travel was approved with Weidman voting against it.

In another matter, two citizens complained about apparent illicit activity occurring on vacant property near Taranto Street, off Waveland Avenue.

The property is the site of an illegal waste dump, and also serves as a "lover's lane," council was told. Citizens also said they feared drug activity was occurring in the area.

Friol sympathized, saying she lives very near the property at issue. She said the city legally can't block the property to prevent access, but she said she would work with area residents to resolve the problem. She suggested residents might consider cutting down a tree to block access to the property.

ATTITUDE

The longer we live, the more we realize the impact of attitude on life. Attitude should be more important than facts. More important than the past, than education, than money, than circumstances, than failures, than successes, than what other people think or say or do.

It is more important than appearance, giftedness or skill. It will make or break a company, a church, a home.

The remarkable thing is, we have a choice every day regarding the attitude we will embrace for that day. We cannot change our past, we cannot change the fact that people will act in a certain way.

We cannot change the inevitable. The only thing we can do is play on the one string we have, and that is our attitude.

It seems that life is 10 percent of what happens to you and 90 percent of how you react to it. And so it is, we are in charge of our attitudes.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

Cultivate your own capabilities. Rabbits don't fly. Eagles don't swim. Ducks look funny trying to climb. Squirrels don't have feathers. Stop comparing. Enjoy being you! There's plenty of room in the forest.

Love one another and have a beautiful week!

VITA

Volunteers needed to help people file tax returns

The Internal Revenue Service is looking for volunteers to help people file tax returns. Anyone wishing to learn a skill, give something to the community and control the number of hours contributed, the IRS Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program may have just the opportunity you are looking for. VITA is a program that involves community volunteers to help people who need assistance in filling out their tax returns. In addition to actually completing the simpler tax forms for taxpayers, volunteers explain the special credits and deductions people may claim and calculate any refund that may be due them.

Free training (four-day class) is conducted in January — now is the time to sign up. VITA can find a way to involve you in the program and in your community.

VITA can be sponsored by local civic or fraternal organizations, educational institutions, churches, social groups, etc. Free tax help is provided at malls, libraries, churches and other convenient neighborhood locations.

Individuals and organizations interested in volunteering in their communities are encouraged to call June Pace.

IRS Taxpayer Education Coordinator, at 965-4142. To call toll-free, dial 1-800-829-1040 and ask to be transferred to the Volunteer and Education Office in Jackson.

Tax practitioners interested in volunteering should inquire about possible CPE credit for volunteer efforts through VITA.

Junior Tigers claim 34-8 win over Rocks

BY JOSEPH GEX

The Bay Junior High Tigers defeated the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws 34-8 in football action on Monday.

The win ended the regular season for the Tigers with a 5-3 overall record and a second place finish in the Coast Junior High Conference.

The loss dropped the Rocks' season record to 3-6.

Bay High opened the scoring with a 29-yard scamper by elusive quarterback Tank Williams. The two-point conversion attempt was no good, leaving the score at 6-0.

Later in the first quarter, Williams avoided tacklers for a 5-yard scoring run. He also added the two-point conversion to give the Tigers a 14-0 edge at the end of the first quarter.

The Rocks scored their only points of the night in the second quarter. Halfback Derek Bradley bowled his way to the end zone on a 6-yard run. Rock tailback Tyree Haynes added the two-point conversion to make the score at halftime 14-8.

Tank Williams scored on a 1-yard run with a QB sneak. B.J. Herrington added the two-point conversion to make the score 22-8.

Bay Jr. High scored twice in the fourth quarter to put the icing on the cake. Williams scored his fourth TD of the night on a 1-yard run. The two point conversion attempt failed. Tiger halfback Herman Dunklin scored on a 3-yard run. The two point conversion attempt failed, ending the game at 34-8.

Bay Junior High has been invited to play in the Stinger Bowl in Hurley, Miss. The Jr. Tigers will play East Central Jr. High on Nov. 9 at 7 p.m.

FISHIN' Y'ALL

By Jim Maness

It's time to go fishin' y'all. Before I get too far into the fishin' report this week, I gotta take a time out. You see, I got a letter "from the desk of E. R. Baxter, the head honcho of the Elks Fishing Rodeo.

Ed and Francis Fahrenheit have had a serious problem with their neighbors since I included the following information about the Bay-Waveland fishing rodeo last week: "Final Call. (Well, not final, but almost final) for anybody that wants to enter a fish in the Bay-Waveland Elks Fishing Rodeo."

The rodeo will end Nov. 8. This puppy has been going on since June 1. The awards ceremony will be held Nov. 21 at the Elks Lodge.

Anybody needing any additional information, call Ross Burke at 467-1372, Francis Fahrenheit or Ed Baxter. It helps if you use a telephone to call them for the information, unless you have a really loud calling voice.

Their problem has been so severe that their neighbors have threatened massive retaliation, perhaps in the form of at least 50 lashes with a wet noodle.

Maybe even sending them a bill for the ear muffs that they have had to purchase. You see I did not give the phone number of either Ed Baxter or of Francis Fahrenheit, but instead told the fishin' buddies to use a really loud voice to call them.

To stop the racket, and to get the neighbors off their back, here are their phone numbers if you want information about Bay-Waveland Elks fishin' rodeo. Burke, 467-1275.

This is a most unique fishing rodeo in that you measure your own fish and send or bring in the information to the Elks Club. I don't wanna hear about any 500-pound specks. Give those folks a call, a phone call, to enter this unique and worthwhile fishing rodeo.

Meanwhile, back at the dock, I got a report this week from Paul Guy about his fishin' trip out to the Louisiana Marsh. It seems that Paul's son showed him up, big time plenty, by not only catching more fish than dad, but he caught a nice drum that was reported to go about 30 pounds.

Paul has had some great success out by the Nine Mile area over the past few weeks. But this week was a little slow. He reported that the water was over the grass on his last trip, which made the fishin' a little more difficult than usual.

There were some additional problems with the wind. It seems the wind was just a "little" stronger than normal. He came to this conclusion when he was almost back to the mouth of Bayou Caddy. According to him, he placed the spotlight of his Q-Beam on the navigation marker on the right side of Bayou Caddy.

A slightly stronger than usual gust of wind turned his boat 180 degrees to the left, but the tic cacahoes in the black and white color. Incidentally, Tommy would not give me the last names of either Chris or George because, according to Tommy, he caught all of the fish anyway. I trying to help you out, Tommy.

The Turtle made several trips out to the train trestle in Bay St. Louis to see if the drum and sheephead have started to show up around the pilings yet. They have not made their appearance yet that he could find.

wind kept his spotlight beam from moving off its location on the channel marker. I wonder if he had a supply of barley pop on board?

Tommy Kidd had more folks over to his home than usual this past week. The aroma of trout tends to draw people that you have not seen for years. Tommy cooked this dish with some of the trout he caught out by Three Mile this past week.

Tommy and friends George and Chris put the heebie-geebies on the trout using plas-

However, there seems to be more Spanish Mackerel in the Bay than have been seen in a month of Sundays. These crazy things almost jump in your boat between the car bridge and the train bridge. You might want to try trolling with the straw bait or a Mr. Champ with a yellow buck tail for the mackerel in this area.

This week's wonderful wise words: It's a lot easier to call if you use a telephone.

Can the wind really bend a light beam, Turtle?

Tips to protect your home from wildfires

Want some information that could save your home or maybe even your life? 255-7152 is a phone number that all rural residents in Hancock County should have handy.

It's the number of the Mississippi Forestry Commission to which you can report a wildfire in your area — and get help.

The recent dry spell and impending fall weather with killing frosts and high winds should raise homeowners' concerns about fire prevention.

All homes in rural and suburban areas are at risk, but firefighters have a special concern about fires in areas where numerous homes have been built in the woods near cities.

Such sites are known as "urban-wildland interfaces." They have become very common in recent years since homeowners prize such building sites for their peacefulness and rustic seclusion.

Fires in the urban-wildland interface are a firefighter's worst nightmare. To a wildfire driven by high winds through dry vegetation, a house is not a barrier; it's just more fuel.

There is the potential for several homes to be set afire nearly simultaneously, thereby overtaking the local firefighting force.

Several devastating urban-wildland interface fires have occurred in the last decade. The most notable hit Oakland, Calif. just a couple of years ago. It was the most costly fire in American history.

The arid and rugged West is known for its huge wildfires, but they can, and do, strike in the East and South. Even a relatively small fire can cause havoc in the urban-wildland interface. Such a fire hit Florida in 1984, destroying over 600 homes and killing two firefighters.

Here's a few common-sense things you can do to protect your home:

—Keep flammable material away from your home.

—Remove dense underbrush, high grass and leaves and twigs from near structures.

—Prune branches that are growing over your house. It's a good idea to prune trees near your house to a height of 15 to 20 feet. This will prevent ground fires from burning into the tops of trees.

—Keep roofs free of pine straw and leaves.

—Burn debris carefully, have water handy and don't leave your fire unattended.

If you have doubts about burning conditions, call the Forestry Commission or your local fire department for advice.

If your property is threatened by wildfire, help is available. Your local fire department is equipped to handle structure fires and small grass fires and brush fires.

Larger forest fires usually must be suppressed by Forestry Commission firefighters with their crawler tractors, fireplows and other woodland firefighting equipment. The sooner we are notified about wildfires the less damage they will cause.

College Football Highlights

For Nov. 6

This weekend the Ohio State Buckeyes will take the field at Wisconsin's Camp Randall Stadium itching for revenge after last year's shocking 20-16 loss to the Badgers on the same field. At the time Ohio State was ranked 12th in the country and was heavily favored to win its fifth straight game over Wisconsin, but the Badgers had other ideas. With a pair of touchdowns by running back Brent Moss (who's one of the nation's top rushers this year) and 18-for-30 passing by QB Darrell Bevell, Wisconsin chalked up its first win over a nationally ranked team since 1985. This year the Badgers have proved themselves capable of beating a few more, but they stumbled badly against Minnesota two weeks ago. The Buckeyes, who lead this Big Ten series 45-13-4, should win by eight points.

The University of Louisville has made a Wisconsin-like turn-around since last season, when the Cardinals finished 5-6. This year, loaded with seniors who have played together for three years, Louisville has lost only to West Virginia. (More about the Mountaineers in two weeks.) In Knoxville, Tenn., on Saturday, the Cardinals take on the Tennessee Volunteers, against whom they're 0-4. In '91, the last time they met, Tennessee won 28-11, and though this one should be closer, the Vols should deal Louisville its second loss. While Cardinal QB Jeff Brohm will come out throwing, Tennessee has a great ground game, and the Louisville defense is weakest against the rush. In one three-game stretch, against Pittsburgh, West Virginia and Southern Mississippi, the Cardinals gave up 633 yards on the ground. Tennessee by nine.

In the West, UCLA, one of the hottest teams in the country, faces Washington State on the road. The Bruins are looking to square things after the Cougars' 30-17 win last year, and they face no small challenge. Even after Washington State quarterback Mike Pattinson broke his collarbone three weeks ago in the first quarter of the California game, the Cougars went on to pummel the Bears 34-7. But Cal was cooling off, and UCLA still appears to be heating up. The Bruins are the six-point favorites.

NFL Forecast for Sunday and Monday Nov. 7-8

Buffalo, 33—New England, 14

In the season's first game, the Bills, led by Jim Kelly (four TD passes), Thurman Thomas (114 yards rushing) and Andre Reed (110 yards receiving), beat up on the Patriots, 38-14. More to come?

Cleveland, 26—Denver, 22

The Broncos have beaten the Browns the past two years, both times in Ohio, but this year the Browns' defense should handle John Elway and his high-scoring but strangely inconsistent offense.

Dallas, 30—N.Y. Giants, 24

This is not only a huge game but the week's best matchup, with both teams among the NFC leaders on both sides of the ball. In '92 the Cowboys defeated a different Giants team twice, 34-28 and 30-3.

Detroit, 23—Tampa Bay, 16

Five weeks ago in Tampa, the Lions led the Buccaneers 10-0 before giving up 27 unanswered points — including three third-quarter TDs — to hand the Bucs their first win of the season. Not this time.

Houston, 27—Seattle, 17

Depending on the locals' patience, playing at home may or may not be an advantage for the star-crossed Oilers; who ever thought a win against Cincinnati would be so big? This would be, too.

L.A. Raiders, 21—Chicago, 20

With a gut feeling that has nothing to do with statistics, we're going out on a limb with the Raiders. Stats seldom seem to matter much with either of these teams, which haven't played since '90.

Miami, 28—N.Y. Jets, 23

In one of the biggest of a handful of upsets in Week Two, the Jets beat the Dolphins 24-14, as Boomer Esiason threw for 323 yards and N.Y.'s defense forced five fumbles. It won't happen again.

Minnesota, 31—San Diego, 21

In the midst of a tight NFC Central race, the Vikings badly need a win, and the Chargers are without a leader at QB—the kind of team Minnesota's defense can hurt. They haven't met in eight years.

Phoenix, 24—Philadelphia, 22

Here's a pick we never thought we'd make, but if you throw out Phoenix's loss to New England a month ago, the Cardinals have been looking better since their season-opening 23-17 loss to Philly.

Pittsburgh, 29—Cincinnati, 12

The first time the Steelers and Bengals met, in September, both were 0-2, which turned out to be bad news for the Bengals. They were blown out 34-7, and the rematch doesn't look to be much closer.

Washington, 27—Indianapolis, 24

Why not the Colts? Call it the rhythm of the season: After the Redskins' embarrassingly big loss to Phoenix, a week off to think about it and a battle with Buffalo, Rypien & Co. will let 'er rip.

Kansas City, 30—Green Bay, 23

(Monday) The Chiefs aren't as good as their record, but this matchup's relevant stat is defense against the pass: the Packers are last in the NFC. K.C. and G.B. haven't met since a 17-3 Chiefs win in '90.

Litter free...

Poster contest features slogans by local students

BY ELLIS CUEVAS
The Hancock County Chamber of Commerce Beautification Committee has recently conducted poster and essay contests.

The poster contests were for kindergarten through third grade and the essay contests were fourth through sixth grade.

The title given to students to express themselves was the Chamber's Litter Free '93 slogan.

On this page are several excerpts from essays and posters from area school children.

"...My community should be litter free because our community is where we were born and where we were created..." - Colleen Bartholomew.

"...Some people don't want to live in a dirty nasty place that looks like a junkyard. We want to be living in a clean place..." - Desire Franklin.

"...Me and my mom pick up trash off the road all the time..." - Kenneth Crawford.

"...I think my community should be litter free because it could harm and kill animals..." - Jonathan Seither.

"...I want my world to be litter free because, I like the sky so blue with soft white clouds. I like to walk on the thick green grass and curl my toes..." - Chaz Piazza.

"...Some of our environment looks like a junkyard, almost. The animals are dying out there..." - Ricky Benvenuti.

"...Litter begins with one person and one piece of trash. Imagine a community where everyone throws just one piece of litter. We would be walking through mounds of litter daily..." - Mylon Labat.

"Pearlington is a beautiful place in the corner of Mississippi. It's small to people that live in big cities, but it's a big thing to us. Lots of grown-ups don't appreciate this town, they throw trash everywhere..." - Angelle Lamb.

"...My country should be litter free to protect the people, animals and trees..." - Charles Bourgeois.

"...Our lawns should be free of litter left by garbage and our roads should not have garbage..." - Stephanie Englert.

"...Litter is not free. In fact, it is very expensive. Litter costs money to clean up, not to mention the cost of our beautiful view of the Bay of St. Louis..." - Anthony Shaw.

"...I wish that someday in the future little kids will teach others that they need to keep their environment clean. Trash should not be seen all over the place..." - Danielle DeBate.

"...The birds did not sing their songs because they found the world too ugly. Pretty flowers did not bloom because they could not breath clean air, and they soon died..." - Rachelle Combs.

"The country is very messy. It should look very nice. We don't want this country to smell..." - Mandie Nunez.

"...If our community was litter free, I would be so happy I could hug a tree..." - Meghan Williams.

"...We should all try and save our community by not throwing junk on the ground and in the water..." - Daryl Acker.

"...My community should be litter free for the environment not for the way it looks..." - Brenna Toomey.

"...People and animals could die or get very sick from litter..." - Holly Sawardecker.

"...God gave us a wonderful gift. The gift is life and the earth is our home..." - Ashley Alford.

"...The people sometimes throw things on the ground and in the rivers..." - Teresa Jackson.

"...My community should be happy to put their trash in the right place so everyone can have a job..." - Jodi Johnston.

"...We should love and cherish our world. We shouldn't be lazy, pick up your trash and don't litter..." - Courtney Pitalo.

"...Our community is beautiful, it is our responsibility to keep it clean..." - Francois Wheelock.

"...I care about our community. I think it should be clean in case someone special comes, like the mayor..." - Jennifer Edgecomb.

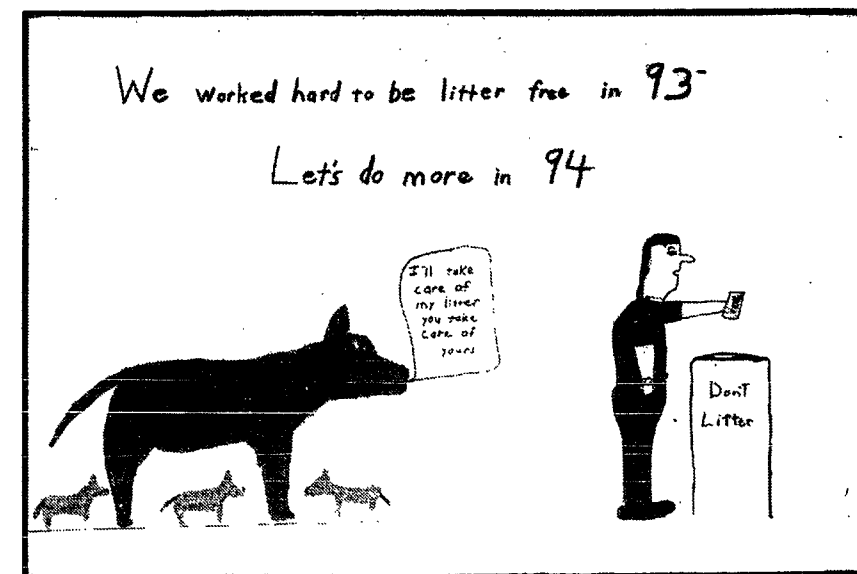

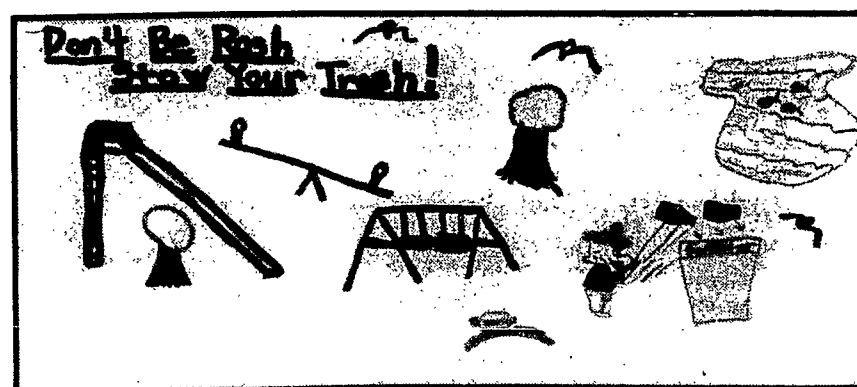

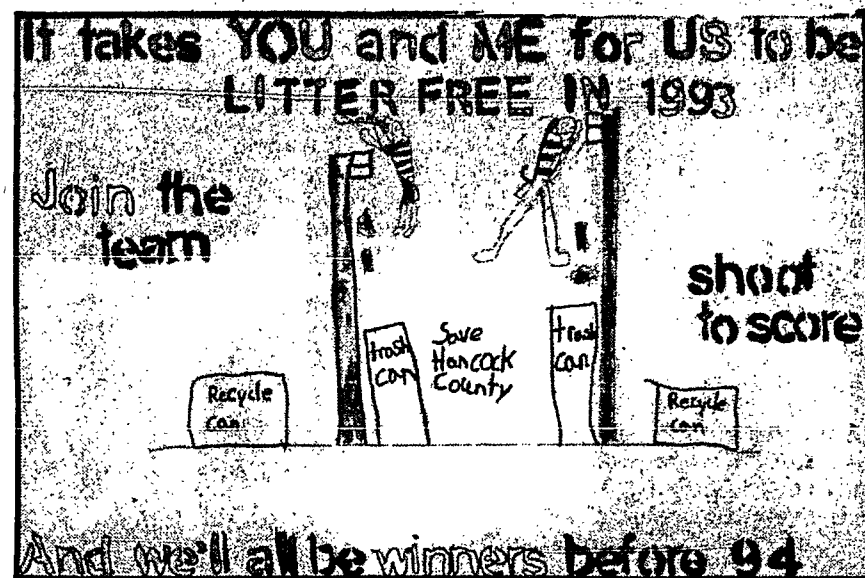

"...Many pieces of litter affects the beauty of our world. Get a trash bag, get some gloves, make our world a better place..." - Britany Sawyer.

"...My community should be clean and litter free so it will be appealing to our tourists and so we can line and enjoy the beauty God created here..." - Matthew Adam.

"...Hancock County is a beautiful place, but it won't be if it has trash all over it..." - Beth Wiley.

"...My community should be litter free because litter free communities show that the people aren't junkies and are civilized people..." - Marc Cerisier.

"...To make this community litter free is an important part of our life. We do this so our children will have a clean environment..." - Jordan Blaize.

OLA seniors meet 'Little Sisters'

Special to the Echo
Seniors of Our Lady Academy welcomed the freshmen into high school at the traditional "Big Sister/Little Sister" ceremonies earlier this month. They chose as their theme "Friends Are Friends Forever."

The senior class initiated the activities by providing the Class of 1997 lunch one day, at which time the 33 seniors and 42 freshmen got acquainted.

During the next week, after choosing their little sisters, the seniors "dressed up" the freshmen and paraded them around the campus. The activities ended with a Big Sister/Little Sister Liturgy in Our Lady of the Gulf Church, with Father Peter Mockler as celebrant.

Mary Scardino, senior class president, gave the senior address stressing friendship and lit the friendship candle placed on the altar. Then the "Little Sisters" were called individually to the altar by Mary Alice Benvenuti, senior class sponsor, where their candles were lit by their "Big Sisters." Allison Altese, freshman class president, responded for her class.

The OLA class of 1994 includes Aimee Griffith, Kay Kennedy, Jenny Krost, Shelley LaFontaine, Alicia Lentz, Heather Lott, Rachel Pope, Michelle Redditt, Amy Rutledge, Lane Spell, Debbie Strong and Margaret Welz, all from Bay St. Louis.

Lauren Bentz, Brandy Roche, Mary Scardino and Heather Wittmann from Pass Christian; LaTanya Bradley and Mary Gholson from Gulfport; and Brandy English, Danielle Gobert, Sarah Gromko, Reagan Melancon and Amy Schaefer from Diamondhead.

Bridget Lamo, Diana Markel, Monique Natal, Erin O'Brien and Kristen Selle from Waveland; Letty Boelte from Pearl-Lington; Anna Hall and Meghan Morris from Picayune; and Kristen Pace from Carriere.

The freshmen from the Class of 1997 include Allison Altese, Sherri Burns, Corinne Carver, Anne Marie Cockfield, Nadia Fairconnetue, Erin Favre, Laura Lee, Joann Mestayer, Melissa Ponthieux, Kathryn Scaife, Erin Seckso, Sarah Taylor, Noel Twigg and Unita Twiggs, all from Bay St. Louis.

Opal Ausmer, Adrienne Bradley, Elizabeth Byrne, Ana Caboni, Julie Dreher, Kristen Gamard, Katherine Hursey, Danielle Inabinet, Jennifer Kennelly, Vicki McDonald, Trang Nguyen, Pepper Pearson and Melissa Ridgeway from Pass Christian.

Candle ceremony

OLA senior Anna Hall lights the candle of friendship of her "Little Sister," Corinne Carver, freshman.

OLA 'Sisters'

Victor

Larger than life cat spreads the drug-free word

BY JANET MCQUEEN

All elementary school students in the Bay-St. Louis-Waveland area are acquainted with Victor the Cat.

Victor has been making the rounds at public and private schools with the message, "Be a victor over drugs...not a victim."

The program, funded by a Drug-Free Schools grant, was developed in Tennessee and has had a nationwide impact, according to Drug-Free Schools coordinator Missy Johnson. "Our schools are among the first in the state to have the program," she added.

Victor comes to life courtesy of two Retired Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) ladies, Dot Feaheny and Jennie Ortiz, according to Johnson.

Several presentations were held last week in conjunction with Red Ribbon Week, the national observation of Drug-Free Schools, including the one pictured at Waveland Elementary.

Below, each class at the Waveland school designed a handprint poster, with the theme "Working Hand and Hand Against Drugs," which lined the halls of the school.

Brockman, Crain are PRC top alumni

Jeanette Crain of Columbia and Ott Brockman of Hattiesburg were honored as Pearl River Community College's top alumni during the college's annual homecoming luncheon last Saturday in the M.R. White Coliseum.

Crain, director of the Myrtles Health Care Facility in Columbia, was a cosmetology student at Pearl River in 1955-56. She has been an active part of Pearl River's Development Foundation and the college's Marion County Alumni Association.

Brockman, a native of New Orleans who attended high school in Bay St. Louis, attended Pearl River in 1947-1948 and played football for the Wildcats.

KNS Theatre presents
"Guys and Dolls"

Guys and Dolls

Kinetic Neo Skene Theatre will present Guys and Dolls at the Biloxi Saenger Theatre for the Performing Arts November 5-7.

Guys and Dolls boasts a rowdy and eccentric cast of characters, side-splitting situations, and some of Broadway's most rousing and lyrical music.

Karen Abernathy and Carlos Santiago portray the star-crossed lovers, Sarah Brown and Sky Masterson. Vanessa Pierce and Anthony Kalberg bring their own brand of comedy to the roles of Miss Adelaide and Nathan Detroit.

Ohr Extravaganza

A talented art professor from Virginia, whose mother lives in Biloxi, will be the juror at the Nov. 19-20 George E. Ohr Extravaganza on the Town Green. Amie Oliver will judge entries beginning Nov. 19.

The extravaganza is coordinated by the city of Biloxi, the Ms. Coast Historical Society, the Mad Potter Society and the Ms. Museum of Art/Gulf Coast.

Entries in the art and folk art festival will be accepted until Nov. 15.

Other events during the two-day festival will include: lectures for students, teachers and adults by Dr. Eugene Hecht, co-author of "The Mad Potter of Biloxi"; an afternoon jam session by the Barbequing Blues Band and other local jazz and blues musicians; and an evening fais do do on Lameuse Street featuring a major Cajun band. A number of children's hands-on arts activities are planned. For more information, call 374-5547.
